Service Needs Assessment

Palvelutarpeen arviointi

The service needs assessment for families with children is an assessment in which the following are reviewed together with the family:

- What the family's situation is like
- What kind of help the family needs

The assessment may take up to 3 months. Sometimes a suitable solution is found more quickly.

1

The family describes their situation.

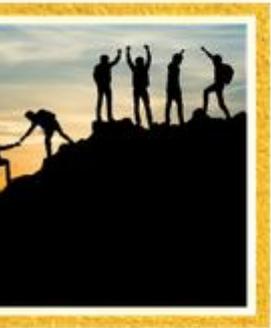

The social worker meets with the child/children. The social worker may also discuss the matter with the daycare center, for example. Discussions will be held with parents.

2

3

Together with the parents, it is reviewed what kind of help the family needs.

4

A plan is made for how the family will receive support.

After the service needs assessment, the child may become a client of social work for families with children or child welfare services.

After the service needs assessment, the family or the child may also be referred, for example, to:

- Child guidance and family counselling services (Family centre)
- Children's mental health services
- Light support family counseling
- Support provided by an association
- Home-help services for families with children
